

State, Church and Community

In this era of political upheaval, can people of faith be an engine of civic virtue and help to strengthen community? What should their engagement with politics look like? How can we build a Common Good with fellow citizens whose views and backgrounds are different from our own?

A public conversation open to all

Speakers: Maurice Glasman, John Milbank
Jenny Sinclair, Mike Royal
Chair: Elizabeth Oldfield

Thursday 14 March 2019

7pm for a 7.15pm start at St Mary's Church Putney, home of the 1647 Putney Debates
Free, with drinks afterwards
Please book via Eventbrite <http://bit.ly/StateChurchCommunity>

This debate is part of State, Society and Common Good, a series produced in partnership between Together for the Common Good, Theos think tank and the Benedict XVI Centre at St Mary's University Twickenham. The series is sponsored by CCLA, one of the UK's largest ethical fund managers for charities, religious organisations and the public sector.

