COMMON GOOD SCHOOLS

A ten week programme

How can we prepare young people to cope with an uncertain future?

The 10-week Common Good Schools programme enables young people to take personal responsibility, to value community and each other and shows them how to put the principles of the Common Good into practice.

By fostering local engagement, the programme helps to position the school as a force for the Common Good in its local neighbourhood.

Grounded in Christian social teaching, this programme enhances moral, spiritual and character education, encouraging independence of thought and enabling young people to discern their unique vocation in relationship with others.

Helps schools meet Ofsted, Section 48 and SIAMS requirements.
